What is Remote Deposit

A remote deposit is creating an easy way to make deposits without ever leaving the office. Create the business transaction from your own computer anytime and any place. The deposit is made by using a scanner located in the business office. Transactions such as deposits and loan payments, other than cash, can be sent electronically.

Why is Remote Deposit Needed?

Having this service can help your business in many ways.

- No more wasted time by driving to the bank to make your deposits.
- Creates a quicker access to cash and will increase cash flow.
- Creates better workflow by not having people out of the office, running deposits to the bank.
- Creates freedom of time. You can access this service even after the bank is closed. You can make your deposits on your time instead of always working around bank hours.

How Does Remote Deposit Work?

To make a Remote Deposit you must have a payment check and a special scanner to scan the payment into the computer system. The payment will then be securely sent over the Internet to us. Once we have received the payment check via the remote deposit we will process the check accordingly. It's an easy and pain-free process, resulting in faster transactions at your convenience.
